-- The Presidential Election

Hi All,

This month's topic is a no brainer. I wanted to know about the elections.

Spirit's point of view has quite an interesting take on the matter. See what you think.

Love to all.

RE: the presidential Election?

Monday November 1 2004

Dear Divine guidance and friends,

I'm wondering if you can see the potential of those who will read this month's newsletter and see a topic that would benefit everyone. I'm wonder about the presidential election, is that a topic that might interest folks from your perspective? Any ideas?

We suggest Child that you allow yourself to pick a topic and we will talk about that.

Okay. Given that you can see from a greater perspective, what is the highest learning right now from this election for president?

You hold most dear within your hearts Child, the ideals of freedom and liberation from tyranny. Think for a moment what you are asking for when you desire such things and you will understand why it is so difficult for you to match your selection of a president with your own ideals, hopes and dreams for yourself.

Inherent within the term freedom is the information that you are all sovereign beings given the right to self determine choices of right and wrong, good and bad for yourself. If you will stop for a moment you will see that you all can liberate yourselves from your own restrictions by taking your own power and exorcising the demons that tell you you cannot. The Human Beings that live in this country (USA) consider it their right to be free and at liberty to choose. However, most of the members of the community called US do not know what freedom or liberty is for freedom is commensurate with the very sobering word responsibility.

Within each Human Being a seed is planted that one day may awaken to the knowing that all are given the same creative ability to move matter around on the physical plane. Being able to move physical matter around simply means you are a 'God' on your planet. You are all equally imbued with this ability. Even those you think of as physically handicapped or mentally challenged, each still has equal rights to be creative with physical matter. THIS is where you are all created equal.

It is also true that most folks on the physical plane have yet to learn that they can move physical matter around because they either don't understand it or refuse to acknowledge their power to affect things. They abstain from taking responsibility for themselves and hence limit the growth of the seed for liberty and freedom that is within.

Taking responsibility quite literally means respond to your environment. Responding to your environment might look something like this. "Oh! Look what I have created. Hum! That wasn't quite what I had in mind. Perhaps if I chose differently this time it will harmonize more closely with my idea of what I wanted to happen." To do this a Human Being would have to be present in the moment and focused on what was constantly being served up to them for review. It's like having the waiter bring you the menu of what YOU ordered up for yourself for the day. You get to choose what you offered yourself to eat.

You like to say a lot on your earth plane, "That isn't my problem! I don't have to do anything about it." But that is not true. All that comes into your field is your problem or a better phrase, your responsibility because you are being asked to respond to what is being presented to you in the moment. Whether you decide it originated from you or not, it is 'up' in your field of potentiality, therefore it is your job to respond. The appropriateness of your response is also up to you. No-one will ever judge you on this side of the veil for any choice that you make in response to your environment. We do however get frustrated because we KNOW where you want to go and what you wish and so often at the last moment of finalizing your creation you give up and drop the energy. However, it will not go away it will simply cycle back into your field. Many seeing their creations turn their heads and refuse to acknowledge what they have created. Their response or responsibility manifests as no response. Subsequently, you trap yourselves.

There are circles within circles of created matter in your physical reality. For example, choosing a partner of the opposite sex and endorsing that option as the only possible intimate partnership spirals into the current socially accepted norm. We suggest that if each person understood they are able to respond and choose for themselves what their preference is you would no longer need to determine for others who could love whom intimately on a global level. What you do to yourselves you do to the world. If you restrict your freedom to choose you restrict other's freedom to choose. Look into your own hearts to see where you restrict your own freedoms for this surely manifests itself outside on the world stage.

If you have chosen two prime candidates for election neither of which represents your own response to your environment see where you are limiting yourself. See where you give your power to choose away and adjust accordingly when your vision shows you what you have currently created. The candidates merely represent you all as a collective. If you had not collectively agreed to this manifestation they would not be the ones representing you currently. You think they have all the power. Think again my friends; it's your collective power that has allowed them to rise to the top. If you had not abdicated your own responsibility to choose from the smorgasbord of your creation you would not now have limited your choices. Does it not surprise you that you only have two viable choices out of the millions that live in the US? Where have you not given yourself unlimited choice thereby improving the odds of manifesting your ideal? The more you allow for diversity of thought, freedom to think for one's self, the more candidates you will allow to come forward.

More and more of you are beginning to experiment with the unknown and unseen creative energy that at this time is only a potential. You are playing with new concepts and new ways of being; allowing the old familiar patterns of existence to give way to new, dynamic and revitalizing spiritual concepts. As you give yourself permission to hold the vibrating signature of those thoughts, it will begin to manifest into the world of created matter. Those of you who are now more familiar with the spiritual concepts of unity, compassion, love and service are the front runners, the seed planters. You often are the ones who merely think well. For you know that holding thought in the field of potentiality produces, and your confidence in 'knowing how it works' produces 'well'. Yes, as in health and well being for all.

This presidential election is not the one to look at and say, "Look how well we've done." It's the one that says, "Look how we have limited ourselves, see how we barely scraped by the skin of our teeth." The world does not operate by getting by. The world operates; rotates on its axis; co-joins with the Universe, uses powerful energy to abundantly supply all types of manifesting, as you chose.

Take the results of your collective manifestation culminating in your choice for president as a sign of how 'well' you are. If you hold onto the ideal of freedom and liberty for all it will become apparent tomorrow. If you do not the outcome of the election will respond accordingly. However, be hopeful for once again you are producing a menu from which to choose. You are quite at liberty to throw out the old menu and create a new. That is always your right, your freedom to choose.
