-- Hurricane Katrina

Hi All,

I sat down to write to my inner guidance/Divine Nature to get clarity from a spirit perspective on what Hurricane Katrina is all about. Some of you had also asked what my Divine Nature had to say, so I'm sending on the response as this month's newsletter.

Curiously, it was September 11 when I began to write, and as I did so my Divine Nature quickened and I felt my heart swell with a surge of remembrance and honoring. There is a link between the two events of which I was not aware. Gratefully, Spirit promptly uncovered it.

I pass this on with love in my heart for all. When I write to my inner guidance, I feel the love and compassion energy coming from Spirit, which is exhilarating. I pass this energy on in this newsletter. I KNOW you have been in intense pain or depression over the last few weeks. I don't think anyone is getting away with not experiencing the effects of the spiritual issues around Katrina.

My love to you,

Vivienne

RE: hurricane Katrina

September 11, 2005

I am writing, hopefully to gather information about Hurricane Katrina that might be beneficial for me and others to understand. What does it all accomplish? Is it random? What can we learn, or do, to help others caught up in the tragedy that has been created?

Dear Friends, I allow and invite your energy to be here with me now.

Dearest Child, as befitting such a sacred occasion as your 9/11 event from your history, we would like to honor this day with a few words to you and others which may help you to understand the current experience of your Hurricane Katrina.

Before you start to try to comprehend the inherent mystery unfolding before your eyes and your hearts, it would be well to remember what your 9/11 symbolizes.

For many that walked the Earth before 9/11 there was quite a covert and limited understanding of how energy moved around on the Earth Plane. The 9/11 events brought to conscious awareness the great significance of the energies that fuel your economy. America the Beautiful is indeed so, not only because of the sole endeavors of those that live in this region, but also by resources that exists throughout the world. America comes to the front as a great nation because it has fueled its ideas of greatness through the hands of others who willingly gave away what they had; their own energy reserves.

Could you clarify what forms of energy you are taking about?

When you see your world Child, you become aware that just as the Spirit world is fueled by the energy of love from the Divine coupled with the Divine grace of creative energy, your earthly representation follows suit. Of course, in order for that energy to manifest into the physical reality it must go through the transformative process that warrants bringing in density, 'heaviness', or added mass. In this way it can then be purposefully used to fuel your creations in physical reality. Pure energy equals love, coupled with creative intention, is merely ethereal to you. It must be added to, lowered if you like, to create the substance that will 'stick' in your reality. You know them as hard, liquid or gaseous substances and are what you are aware of as your common fuels. These are the energy forms we talk of when we say your 9/11 event brought to conscious awareness to what fuels America's economy.

So you are talking literally of energy fuels like oil, coal, natural gas and chemical combustion?

Yes, Child currently, without these properties the Planet Earth would virtually disappear in the form it's in now. Your everyday world would dramatically shift. In fact, you would be in total chaos. For indeed, you need structure in order to maintain the integrity of love, your true nature, while in physical reality. Currently, you have made yourselves totally dependant on the fuels that you have obtained out of the ground. If they were to end suddenly, as you are beginning to suspect they might, given the current climate conditions, you would be thrust into a world-wide panic. Your economy would fail and your lives would be irrevocably altered. These climate changes are a necessary part of the transformational process. They act as warnings to severely curtail the amount of fossil fuel emissions contaminating the air you breathe, and herald the dawning of a new age of purification and rejuvenation. Mother Earth is rebalancing herself. She will do so with or without your co-operation.

Thank you. So back to the energy that others have given away and our awareness of it in our 9/11 event, what energies have been given away?

Oil is your most precious energy source currently on your Planet. It propels the viewpoint that whoever controls it, controls the world market (World Trade Towers). It is a game doomed to failure because all participants eventually realize that the thing desired the most, burns and disappears. It is not a sustainable energy source, and it will cut you off and out of this current game as it allows it's self to disappear from view. You are allowing the disappearance of oil to happen because you know it fuels imbalance, and as the Planet moves toward unity consciousness, fuels that limit the expression of ALL receiving benefit will no longer exist. You cannot limit what is the Divine right of individuals to utilize, as it is a natural extension of the gift of life. This imbalance will continue to pop its head up to the surface until it is addressed, and when reusable, sustainable, constant energy sources are made available and freely for all to enjoy.

So what did 9/11 bring to awareness?

Your 9/11 event brought to your consciousness the awareness that the days of living when only those who 'own' the energy source benefit from life on Planet Earth and all others that live in poverty, or are made to live in poverty at the expense of rich nations, are coming to an end. You would call it a form of Colonialism where one nation, having learned how to make useful the fuels of the Earth for an 'ease of life,' scout out other nations and force them to give their energy away, and in doing so deprive the lesser nation of not only the true value but also the understanding gained from the sharing of technology, which could otherwise support their infrastructure in a beneficial manner.

9/11 made you realize you are being selfish with the resources of the planet and that the unquestionable thirst for survival of the fittest goes against the spiritual principles: all are given the right to life, no-one is to be hindered in their ability to create, AND when you have found a path for enlightened living you are to share it with your brothers and sisters.

Throughout the history of America there is a sad telling story of abuse of power over others who are weaker and less able to defend themselves against a greater force. This force, this unquenchable thirst for power, sought to claim its right to dominate based on historic precedents, "might is right", and the sad belief that God Almighty condones this action. It is a worn out and very badly misconstrued connection that the power behind your Divine right to exercise its creative ability is a brut force and the requirement for greatness.

Slavery, servitude and domination are the threads that run through the sad story underscoring America the Great. The power that has fueled the allowance of this form of manifestation has now been turned off. Human Beings are no longer allowed to manifest domination and dominion over others. Be aware Child, this type of domination has dire consequences for any that use this tool in their manifestations. This is not a threat. It is simply a way of being. It has gone. It no longer exists. What you are witnessing is the clean-up.

More of you on this Continent are more aware than ever before of the impact of where your fuel for your lives comes from. Not many before 9/11 were aware or concerned about what fueled their way of life. It was taken for granted that what supported your human existence was a natural occurrence of your own right living. "I'm doing my life right that's how come I have so much." That had to end Child, simply because of this significant fact: others suffered to bring you what you considered your right to an easy life.

"Who controls the power source on the Earth wins, those who do not, lose."

This dictum, this underlying belief of the way things work on the Earth Plane exists no more. Your consciousness has evolved. You feel it now, keenly in your gut, when this dictum from the past presents itself. Those of you who experienced the 9/11 event know it. It is the cellular memory implant that woke you up. It is the nagging thought at the back of your mind that repeats, "What did we do to warrant these attacks?" Many try to say, "We didn't do anything!" But you can no longer hide. It is in you. It is in your cells.

You have woken up your compassion factor. You have created an opening to expand your compassion to the Divine level and implement it into your Earthly Reality. You can no longer thrive on others sorrow and pain. That way of existence has now passed. What you witness now with current events is the clean-up.

Has it come to your conscious awareness that the Gulf region and your port of New Orleans and surrounding tributaries is the birth canal for America?

The fluid motions of its waters rise to cleanse the festering sores of a nation suffering from the abuse of ages. It is Mother Earth responding to her own need to cover her shame with the healing waters of purification. It has never dawned on so many, so quickly how impoverished the womb of America really is.

The sores, the wounds of impoverishment, neglect and powerlessness have risen to the surface for all to see so that it can no longer be disguised from the World. The shame is obvious. The cleansings have begun. The wounds are healing even as we write.

Your brothers and sisters who have allowed their personal energy and lives to add to the fuel of this cleansing, this restoration of the magnificence of human compassion are to be honored beyond your human comprehension.

Be aware Child, and this is central, your lives are only as important as you choose to believe you want them to be. If you choose to elevate yourself and think of yourself as more important than your fellow Human Beings, you will eventually encounter scenarios that manifest as you needing the hand of those you thought lesser of. You will need them to lift you out of your despair and trouble. No where is it written that you will be placed above your brothers and sisters and look down on them and be rewarded for it. This is the energy that fuels the cleansing of the past, a past that produced much suffering for so many.

Perhaps you could further explain the role of the African Americans in this situation as they are the representation of slavery in this country given their roles since pre-civil war times. It might serve to further explain why we are seeing so many images of the African Americans that have been affected by the hurricane and how generations of white people have held themselves in positions of greater importance over other races. Additionally, this will serve as a testament to that particular race which has once again given of themselves in order for the consciousness of all beings that may be raised and finally turn the tide for acceptance of equality for all races – perhaps a way to pay homage to those that have given of themselves in order for us to experience this cleansing.

Since the beginning of time you have played with the possibilities of reaching out into the cosmos to identify all that can be ordained around issues of race, color and forward thinking. However, the focus of African Americans as a group of divinely inspired whipping boys is absurd Child and needs to be taken out of your vocabulary. African Americans have been placed in the energy of the 'less than' because they have long represented interference and degeneration of a society who's system is based on false pretenses.

African Americans play a role in your culture of being the whipping boy, the lowly outcast. A perpetuate role in any society that tries to preserve its outmoded way of existence. In India, you have the caste system where the Untouchables are at the bottom of the ladder. Slavery is a common theme among Human Beings. The act of making someone less than yourself in order for you to get what you want has perpetuated the myth that certain types of individuals by the nature of their skin are of lesser value than those that more closely resemble the divinity in their scriptures.

I'm sorry; could you make this easier to understand?

All systems, social systems that implement domination as a method of governance will naturally have a hierarchy system where someone is considered greater, at the top and lesser, at the bottom. Because you hold in your creative expression this 5 way of manifesting, you have now provided yourself with a dilemma, one that is quickly rising to the surface as you transition through to the next dimensional shift. African Americans, by the nature of their skin color, have never fit into the model of western, white Christian doctrine, which falsely believes man was created in God's image; white and therefore has dominion over others who are not. Spiritual principles are twisted in order to support domination and superiority. The incorrect interpretation of Spirit and your Divine Nature has led to the abusive situation you find yourself exposed to today. Your false spiritual beliefs, your incorrect assumptions about the nature of how the world works and how God has created the world has led to the overpowering of one nation over another, the domination of one ethnic group over another, and the covert act of keeping people poor and dependant.

When you place one nation above another you are bending spiritual principles that govern the Universe. Imagine a very flexible stick that can never break and gathers more energy as it is bent backwards. Any force applied to hold it back will eventually weaken and the stick will move back to its original state, its balance if you will. The stick has to return to balance because the amount of energy used by the force to hold it back has less integrity than the flexible stick. Spiritual principles cannot break, they always move back to their balancing point. Domination of one nation over another eventually comes to an end.

African Americans stand out now Child because it is time to heal. All eventually must come into balance. All nations must recognize that the spiritual principles that separate and divide are not part of the congruence of your true nature. As your true nature comes to light, as you feel your inner landscape irrevocably altered by the rise in consciousness, you will not be able to abuse others. You will feel it as conscience. We tell you it is your Divinity gathering speed and sweeping out before you to expose all that is distorted, abusive and detrimental to life.

African Americans have risen to the surface of your consciousness in order to apply healing. You are all healing Child. Those that have dominated need healing just as much as those that have been dominated. Take it as true, Child. Your Planet is moving back into balance.

We underscore our rhetoric by saying these sad and gut wrenching images you see of lives lost, homes destroyed and families split apart are of the same energy perpetrated on those of your own spiritual family from your past, rising to declare of its own accord, "Stop, no more! This shall cease!" The shame is palpable and many do not want to admit their shame, their responsibility, and their hand in the matter. It would be better that the hand be placed firmly over the heart for each to acknowledge their part in the creation of events that now unfold. Simply by being Human you are responsible. Each has played a part in the role of the dramatic events rising to consciousness. It is now time for each and every soul who walks the Earth to understand that by the very nature of being Human, you are responsible. The finger pointing, the waging of war-like energy tossed back and forth to assign blame is merely an outmoded form of communication to hide shame and feelings of guilt. It would be better to feel the guilt, the sorrow of shame and return the energy into the balance for re-use, alchemized by the gift of compassion that this event brings.

So if you are feeling shameful, if you are feeling guilt, it is appropriate. It is the cellular call of your inner wisdom removing the layer of hostility toward yourself which ultimately manifests onto others. You have despised yourselves long enough. You have hated yourselves long enough, through out life times. Wouldn't it be a relief to be done with that? To be free of the restrictions that makes even just breathing difficult?

We would like to prepare you for the internal cleansing that the events of 9/11 and Hurricane Katrina have initiated. All who feel moved to do so are welcome to join in with us now.

- Place both hands on your heart area and feel the energy there, the movement of guilt and shame.
- Think upon your own life where you have hated yourself and others.
- Place your hands on any other areas that feel particularly hurt or pained during this process.
- Breathe into this area the blue violet ray of hope mixed with the pink light of compassion.
- Allow yourself time here. It is a sacred moment. It is a moment to consciously bring awareness to the role you have played as a Human Being, creating your experiences out of freewill.
- Allow the cleansing of your compassion and responsibility (response) to move through the part of your body that best serves its own wisdom and purpose.
- Acknowledge your ability as a Divine Creator, to radiate the highest possible outcome and healing for yourself and others, and let the pure light of your Divinity move through you and out into your community, out into the world and then into the Universe.

You will hook up and connect to the energetic transformation of others also holding a steady, pure, vibrating, healing light around the Planet and you will be an instrument anchoring compassion into the grid.

You are the light of the World. Use it, this transformational tool and you will swiftly move aside all distorted energy. This will amplify Mother Earth's task as she guides her children on their new journey.

Be aware that each and every one of you controls the outcome of events that reflect devastation on your Planet. Your willingness is the key: going with the flow instead of turning against the tide is your greatest asset.

By cleansing your own hearts of the devastation caused by domination and hatred you will all serve as the compassionate change now required for a swift transformation of the energy of past creations as you move into higher realms.

We caution. Do not be disheartened with what you have created. Hurricane Katrina, your feminine Counterpart reveals herself as the powerful energy of healing that is required at this time. (I am prompted by Spirit at this point to research the meaning of the name Katrina and I find it means, from the Old English – ‘Blessed, Holy and Pure’) She serves you. She is your creation and she accepts her responsibility for the role she plays as the Elevator of the Hearts and Minds of Men. Be peaceful Child. Know that as odd as things appear, all is indeed in Divine order. You yourselves, as creators can attest to that.

Peace be with you and Prepare the Way.
