- The Soul and The Divine Connection
- Who Is This Writing For?

Hi Everyone!

I hope you are all enjoying this holiday season.

The initial reason I began to channel write was because I wished to have a personal experience with the energy 'on the other side' that, I was told, loved me and would guide me through my life. Of course, I was in much physical and emotional pain at the time; always my touch stone for growth. So began an exploration into the unknown that has taken me far beyond my initial intent.

Many already have a deep abiding connection to their Creator which they can feel. At the time I started to write, I was overwhelmed by the redoubtable presence of God. I believed that if there were such things as Spirit Guides they would be the ones to contact. They would know me personally and guide me intimately in a way that God could not.

As time has passed I know that the power that I now connect to is my own. It is the Divine Spark that lives within in me that I can connect to at any time. As you will see in the second section of this newsletter, most of the information is always for me but which may carry universal appeal for you. However, I began the next channeling asking for the Divine Nature of All That Is to access the potential for who will read this newsletter to see if any specific information may benefit others by sharing it.

I received, "We see before us the potential for who will read your newsletter. So far we can tell there are several issues that are pertinent to all folks reading and we will address those if you would like to continue." Yes, I agreed, I would. "Firstly, I see an aversion to really immerse the self into the waters of the Embracing Self. We see a lack of willingness to trust that the inner voice is really speaking up and that the inner voice has great wisdom for each."

So began the next channeling. Please receive it with the love that is created whenever I share my connection to the Divine within.

Dear Divine Nature Of All That Is,

What do we need to know then right now to be aware of the nature of Spirit in our daily living and that we are not lost.

Hello, dear Child! Welcome to a review of your existence and the plan for the movement forward of the Planet Earth.

It has been said that the nature of Divinity is reflected more powerfully among the hearts and souls of men when they are more connected to their Divine Essence than when they are not. We would like you to understand what this connection, when activated, brings you so you will not confuse it with the connection to another part of you termed, soul.

For the most part you are energy of Spirit walking around in the physical housing called your bodies. For the purpose of this discussion we insist that you place yourselves firmly into your bodies for a moment so you can try to 'feel' your Spirit moving around. We will rest/be patient while you try this exercise.

For the majority of you, you will encounter thoughts, your heartbeat, your aches and your pains, and your soul talking to you hoping to get your attention in order to get its needs met. Yes, you are surprised that your soul has needs Child, but indeed it does and loudly clamors for your attention when it is NOT being nourished. In your silence, as you go inward, what most of you will encounter is the insistence of your soul desiring to speed up your earthly life to execute its requirements first upon your timetable.

Let us then pay attention to the soul for a moment to find out what it wants in order to feel satisfied and fulfilled.

During your earthly expressions, (for the purpose of this dialog we will only select your earthly experiences, as talk of other forms of life make many of you uncomfortable and you would begin to think what those other lives might be instead of focusing on this discussion –our intention at this time) you have all selected to have purposeful, meaningful lives which supplement the experiences that your soul needs to expand its heightened awareness of itself as a Divine impulse from God/Creator. When you entered into physical reality this time around your soul took part in the deliberations prior to your arrival, initiating its stream of conscious awareness to prompt the direction of new potential experiences for this, your current lifetime. It was hoped, during this planning stage, that your soul would offer past experiences as the foundation for movement forward into the realm of spiritual experiences not yet had.

Remember your earthly experiences do not always satisfy those awareness-expanding potentials you established prior to arriving in this reality. Many indeed live their lives without so much as touching those issues/subjects that would have either rectified past polarized perceptions of manifest reality or paved the way for more creative exploration of Divinity in Human Expression. Ultimately, the soul can get very bored and indeed, very impatient. Sometimes, it screams at you to move, move, move, more toward your goals (fulfillment of your potentials). Sometimes, it will scream at the most inopportune times for you like in the middle of the night, or at family gatherings. Do you think these might be times when your soul is speaking out loudly?

So what generally are our souls trying to tell us?

You are being told when you are planning to move your energy out into the outer reality in either a way that is nourishing or not for the soul. The soul is aware of all your past experiences, triumphs and mistakes. Your soul takes itself for granted as being the final word on any decision and, as it is privy to much about you, feels it has the right to dictate.

I thought that on a soul level there were no mistakes?

There are no mistakes from a Spiritual perspective but what you are looking at is the domain of soul. Your soul is not to be confused with the state of allowing which is a quality of Spirit. Your soul does 'allow' but only under the auspices of its own experience and learning; its own wisdom through experiential knowing. Your soul is a living, growing, expanding conscious awakening entity. It is the record of you, your individual identity growing ever more toward total commune with the awareness of itself as an originating impulse of the Divine spark that It Is. Your soul moves toward being a God, as you would term such beings. Ultimately, the created becomes the Supreme Creator once again merging with the One whilst holding onto its gift of awareness, no longer separate from that which created it. Mistake is the word we use to initiate an understanding from your perspective of what constitutes direction. You are directed in your earthly endeavors by the understanding of 'making mistakes'; those acts of human experience that propel you to achieve greater heights, greater awareness and understanding of the domain where you are not separate but One with It All. When you arrive back into the arena of Spirit you lose the polarizing nature of Earth experience which uses language to define cause and effect. There is a releasing from having to define in order to understand and instead, an all inclusive knowing is demonstrated to clarify the state of being which exists out of your time frame.

Okay. I have heard that our souls are conscious between lives and, as you have conveyed, are part of the planning committee before we come back to Earth. Do we not use those remembrances as part of our human experience to help us navigate through our journey here?

As formidable as this may seem, you consciously disconnect from those awareness as you begin to lose yourself to the Human Being you become on the world stage. You lose yourself like an actor whose forgotten he is in a play and so merges with his role, not knowing where his character begins nor ends. You set up this scenario so you can create freely as the Divine impulses you are. You have collectively chosen to create lower and lower density through conscious intent to separate from the Oneness of Divinity which has clouded the memory further, dislodging the easily accessible tool to connection to Source. Now, as the scene changes within your playing arena, the Earth, and humanity embraces its 'lostness,' you begin to shift the scenery around removing those blocks to movement that you originally placed in your way to see what it would be like to be so restricted. Collectively, you are raising the density of Spirit energy and are no longer pretending that you do not know who you are. You are re-connecting, hooking up once more to Divinity, accelerating the timetable that the soul previously anticipated for fulfilling potentials.

As you can see, when your soul participated in the plan for potentials this go around the possibility of global awakening was just a dream. Now that is a reality your soul is insistent that it finish its business quickly, so greater expansion possibilities are more forthcoming. You will feel this insistence as a great push to finish this life's lessons and many will experience themselves as feeling that they are dying, a sense of loss and finality pervading the senses. This is because for many, the job they came to do, those potentials, are fulfilled and the soul feels it would now like to fly out of the body and return home to take that well earned rest.

So, you feel this impetus to fulfill your soul's journey as an inner craving which is exacerbated by the soul's full connective awareness of the passing of time inherent within the time/space continuum in which you exist as a Human being. For you, this insistence from your soul can be very uncomfortable.

Now, this is where it gets interesting. Your soul does not have your overall best interest at heart. In other words, your soul is not the Supreme Commander in your life, the loving presence of Divinity is the Supreme Commander of All That Is and all that is about you; all the levels, the ones you are routinely familiar with, body, mind, emotions, intellect and those others you are less familiar with, your spirit energy and all other multidimensional aspects of yourselves you do not routinely remember but are aware of when your attention is not afraid to focus on the possibility of their existence. You play out all these multidimensional levels simultaneously, but as we've already mentioned, the Supreme Commander is the Divinity that moves within you and has the last word on any part of your genogenesis, or the initial spark that God/Creator set to light when you were given the gift of life.

Play with the idea that your soul is the active living member of your physical self that transitions when you leave the Earth plane that records everything, and we mean, everything that occurred while you breathed air on the planet Earth. Your soul controls your playback buttons accessible whenever you need to review your experiences to date.

Now, if you wanted to understand the nature of Divinity you would NOT ask your soul. Your soul is limited. Do you see? It is like asking the TV to display all it is capable and then keep it permanently in the DVD or video recorder mode. This is not to say the soul is not wise. It is wise from experience, your experience. (It is a great place to go to understand the nature of your being Human, right now in this moment.) However, the experience is limited to its perspective only. To not access therefore, the Divine nature of all things, the God/Creator impulse available to every energetic signal in the Universe, you are limiting the full power source available to plug into at any time.

Why would you want to plug into the full power source? Why would you not? Look at mice in a man made maze. From your perspective, do they not go round and around either looking for a way out or ill-content to just be lost? You wonder or feel sad for them because from your perspective it is so easy to appreciate the bigger picture that being shown the way out, they are empowered to explore themselves free from their restrictive domain. Now, you say, certain of yourself, if the mice could find a way out they would surely take it and yes, if you could hear them speak they would be yelling, "Let me out of here!"

So guess what, how many prayers do you think come from you to the Creator that start, "Let me out of here!" You may or not be surprised to know it is a large, significantly large number of the world's population.

You see, until a time comes when the exercise you did earlier, to listen to your inner selves, is coupled with instruction, (yes, we know you do not like to instruct God, therefore we will term it, intention) when you intend to connect with the Divine Nature of All Things, or use whatever name you wish to call the begetter of your genogenesisness, you will continue to be stuck or lost within your own experience. For your soul, with its cumulative experience cannot always help you when you are in pinch (in trouble).

So we say Child, behold the magnificence of the Creator who bore you. Play in the energy of his gift to you but go Home within yourself, connect with Him whenever you need to fully empower yourself with the wisdom granted you, as is your rightful inheritance, due to your Divine Perfect Reflection of the Divinity of All That Is.

Who Is This Writing For?

Dear Guidance, dear friends

I would like you to give me information, a bit more in- depth, about the what I am to gather here. How are we to go about this? How is it organized? Is there any method in particular we need to address? How about the topics? Where do they come from?

We see an opening in your field to speak and here we are. Child, be aware first and foremost that the energetic dialogues we have are for your benefit mostly. What is gathered or gleamed by others is for their benefit, but primarily in dialogue with us you are accessing your guidance. All others have their own Divine guidance. You are sharing by example, a method that others may use to address their own unique Divinity. Therefore, at no time is the information that we pass on you to be considered for more than just you. It is vital that you appreciate all have access to their Divinity and the goal for others that you connect to with your writing, is merely for them to hear, they can do it too. What may be found as important or necessary for others is the universality of information present. Much of the information that we present will be in the form of dialogue exchanges from your heart to ours. In this manner will information come to the forefront to be disseminated. Generally, with eyes wide open this information should be applied by you and taken with a grain of salt by all others; meaning that the healthiness of a Spirit being Human lies in their faithfulness and dedication to the call and working of their own heart. We do not say any of this to discourage you from your joy of sharing. We say this so that you will fully appreciate what is taking place in these dialogues: the dissemination of information coming in through your heart. All others will disseminate information coming in from their heart, if the desire is strong enough to do so. So the learning tool present in our dialogues is merely: You can do this too.

Indeed Child, there is much that you go through, or experience, that parallels others but no two Human Beings are ever the same. What would be the point in that? Only the Divine can create in this manner, allowing its inner wisdom to access channels of relevant and pertinent information for or from the soul. It is not anticipated ever that relevant information should be blankly accepted and implemented for another. This would cancel out the directive: All have freewill. Therefore, we caution you Child, to not anticipate that all information gathered from us will have universal appeal. It will have relative appeal: relative to the individuals who receive it. This is said Child to anchor the information you receive into your own field of awakening and be implemented for your benefit, not to be forgotten and relinquished as if it doesn't apply to you. It does apply to you always and may have relevance for others. Do you understand, Child?

Yes, I believe I do, although I get a message from you to write everyday. I wondered why we are doing that and also, I have a yearning to share this with others?

Ah, Child! Here you have touched on another Human trait that confuses the information accessed from the Divine as having relevance for all: THE HEART.

The heart is a vessel that while performing physical tasks has a much bigger one behind the scenes, as it were. The heart's capacitor, in accessing Universal Truths, expands and sets it reeling into Joy. Joy is more profound, more blessed an experience when it is shared. Sharing your Joy amplifies its resonance and kicks off a chain reaction of bliss and consequently, Divine connection, while in physical form. Divine connection amplifies not only the Divine but others also while in physical form. This amplification draws to it or attracts particles of Divine Energy and lights up like a Beacon. And the Beacon says, "All who are attracted to this Light are connected to Home, and all who are connected to Home, are Home. You are Home when you write to us. Your heart opens, you flood with Joy, sometimes removing blocked energy in its wake, and you shine forth the Beacon of Home. OF COURSE, you want to have others connect or notice your Beacon, your handwriting to us. You were built this way. It is not that you seek attention for your ego's sake. It is your birthright and as it turns, or does what it is programmed to do, it shines. Do not bright shining lights attract? So do not admonish yourself for wanting this information to envelope others. Your desire is to envelope them in Love. Therefore, Child, see your writing as connection to Home. Happy Beacons of Light uniting, spreading the Goodness that there is Joy.

Joy exists. It is Good and it is central to the feeling of connection to Home. If there is no Joy then there is rarely an understanding of Home. Can you now see Child, what we mean when we say, Heaven on Earth? At Home, Heaven: your expanded Self while here on Earth: Joy. Joy is the key. If you are Joyful, truly Joyful with the heart open and streaming, YOU ARE HOME. It does not matter what the activity or cause for the Joy, whatever opens the heart to Joy that is the vehicle to Home. True joy, the activated heart center is the purest feeling in the World. It is your birthright and you have a right to share your Joy. So share it. Let others decide if the information is of benefit for them or not. That will be self evident for those who read these transmissions. But what will be conveyed will be your Beacon, your Light, your Joy.

The Word is Joy and you must spread it around as much as possible. You will see.
You will see.

Thank you, Guidance for that wonderful account. Now I understand better about why you ask me to connect everyday. You're saying, by connecting with you in this form, my action to Joy opens up my heart and anchors the energy of Home. Now I get it. Now it makes sense.

Yes, Child, you will find that the benefit for accessing Joy from Home or your action to write to us will make it easier to transcend the limits of your physical universe. This is the key to transcendence: Joy.

Be at Peace, Child.
